13. SHARED GOVERNANCE COUNCILS AND COMMITTEES

a. Employees, Community and Communication Council (ECCC)

The Employees, Community, and Communication Council is dedicated to cultivating, building, and sustaining a community of inclusivity that creates a welcoming, safe, and respectful environment for all to thrive. With a holistic view of the human experience at Palomar College, the Council pays particular attention to the opportunities inherent in recognizing and cultivating the interconnections between all of the College's diverse communities and constituent groups. The Council provides strategic direction for both internal and external communication to promote optimal dialogue between all dimensions of the community. It identifies, prioritizes, and advocates for diversity in hiring and the human resource needs of the College. It supports the growth and professional development of all employees in our educational community with an emphasis on institutional development opportunities that promote antiracist organizational change. The Council makes recommendations to ensure that all employees are provided training throughout their employment. It monitors and evaluates practices and makes recommendations to promote safety and security across campus. It is also empowered to develop and assess initiatives that cultivate and sustain an inclusive and connected college-wide culture and climate.
